Nate's Way

Nate's Way was created in memory of Nathan Ryan Flanagan who died by suicide in 2017. Through Nate's struggles and pain that only his eyes could see, Nate always found time for others and their feelings. Whether it was his family, his friends or complete strangers, Nate always made a conscious effort to go out of his way to complete a nice deed for anyone. On the 9th of every month, Nate's Way feeds over 100 homeless community members and provides the basic necessities along with hygiene bags. For more information, please visit natesway.org.

Tipi Raisers

Working closely with Tribal authorities on proper safety measures, Tipi Raisers launched the COVID-19 Action Fund and Initiative in April to collect and distribute food and supplies to families on Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota who have been identified by their community as being most impacted. Village Exchange Center (VEC)

VEC emerged as a way to address and alleviate the challenges of welcoming the growing numbers of immigrant and refugee communities. In the first two years of operations, VEC has become an anchor in the community for support and empowerment. VEC continues to activate the building and develop connections with and between the surrounding communities, the majority of whom are foreign-born. VEC serves 600-700 families per week.
